WEDDINGS.

Nicot-Ham.

The wedding of David Nicot and Mrs. Ada R. Ham was solemnized last night at 7 o'clock by Rev. James Miller at the home of W. H. Addis, on South Main street. The house was elaborately decorated with autumn leaves. Frankie Beal and Nettie Miller, two little children, were the attendants. About 55 friends were present and the guests were received from 50 more. The groom is a partner in the Northwest Paper company, a leading firm in Minneapolis, Minn. The bride is a resident of Decatur. They will leave today for a visit at Cedar Falls, Ia., and from there will go to their home at Minneapolis. Those present at the wedding from out of the city were: Mr. and Mrs. Henslie, of Maroa; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wallace, of Mahomet; P. T. Platt, Mrs. Devereaux, of Depeire, Minn.; and Miss Lizzie Morgan, of Fisher, Ill.

Winters-Hughes.

Only a few relatives and intimate friends were present yesterday noon at the pretty little German Methodist church when Rev. G. E. Heidel performed the ceremony that united for life Ed A. Winters and Miss Lizzie Q. Hughes, daughter of D. L. Hughes. The bride, a lovely girl at all times, was charming in a handsomely made dress of old rose tulle silk. After the ceremony an elaborate wedding dinner served at the home of Mr. Hughes, 349 East North street, was discussed. The young people left on an afternoon train for Lovington, their home. They will board for the present.

Mr. Winters is proprietor of the New Era of Lovington, and by his success with the paper has shown himself to be a most worthy young man. The bride was a member of the class that graduated at the high school in '88. She is the first of the class to be married. She has a bright active mind and graceful manners that make her many friends.

Those from out of the city who witnessed the wedding were Myrtle and Willie Winters, of Blue Mound, sisters of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. James Sparger, of Blue Mound, the latter a sister of the bride; Thomas Forbes, of Lovington.

Mrs. Bailey's Arm Broken.

Miss W. H. Bailey, with another lady and a six-month-old child, started to drive out yesterday morning to see Mrs. Bailey's sister, who lives three miles north of the city. When nearly to the sister's, they met a farmer and his son driving a bull along the road. The bull was evidently a bad one. As Mrs. Bailey's horse was passing he made a lunge at it, and catching him under the body, actually turned him over, breaking the shafts, upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants out.

Mrs. Bailey was quite badly hurt, and lay unconscious for some time. She was carried on down to her sister's and Dr. H. H. Bailey was called. Besides several bruises on her face, he found that one arm was broken. The child in the buggy was unhurt and the other lady was only slightly injured.

The horse was not seriously hurt. He ran away after he got back on his feet, but was caught before going far.

Hanlon's Secretary.

The Hanlons' "Fantasma" company came in about 1 yesterday in a special train over the T. H. & P. of three cars. Wednesday night in the yards at Peoria while the cars were being switched into the train after the performance, one car load of scenery was washed to pieces. Though the car was a wreck, but a comparatively small amount of scenery was injured. The scene painter and carpenters of the company went to work on it at once, and by the time for the performance to begin last night all the most important pieces were restored and ready for use. The damage will be fully repaired by tonight.

A Heavy Rainfall.

The frame work is up for a building, 60x45, at the Wabash car shops. It will be one story and is to be used for a brass casting shop. About the only thing that will be made there will be the brasses that are used in the boxes of the car wheel journals. To avoid as much as possible the heat from friction, brass is used with the steel axles. Heretofore the Wabash has been getting all its castings from the P. H. Wayne Brass company at Ft. Wayne, Ind., but that has proved a costly item to the company. Now they will all be made here. It will result in the addition of several men to the force now in Decatur.

Christian County Christians.

A convention of the Christian churches of Christian county will be held in the Christian church at Taylorville, beginning at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 22, and ending Thursday night, 24th inst. Among the ministers who will be present and deliver addresses are Elders T. W. Pinkerton, Decatur; L. M. Robinson, Maroa; J. H. McGuffin, Illinois; S. P. Grant, Greenville; E. E. Cowperthwaite, Assumption; A. D. Norbert, Blue Mound; and W. W. Weedon, Taylorville.

The Phat is Weak.

E. J. Martin returned yesterday from Louisville, where he went to see some of the leading capitalists who have money in the Great Electric railway. He comes back with more authority to act in the matter of enforcing the proper equipment of the line by the Detroit Electrical works. He said that this equipment here is weak, no matter who says it is not. He will go to Detroit at once to stir the people there up about their slowness and failures in sending material.

The Taylor sale.

A big crowd of more than 700 people was at the Taylor horse sale, 10 miles southwest of the city, yesterday. D. P. Keller was the auctioneer, and sold a large number of fine animals at high prices. The lunch in the middle of the day was an important feature. Four tubs of sandwiches had been prepared, but they were all disposed of and two more tubs had to be provided. Coffee was used up by the barrel.

Death of Blanche Willis.

Blanche, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Willis, died at 6:10 Thursday, Oct. 17, of diphtheria. She was 4 years and 11 months old. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the residence, 949 East North street.

THE NEW FANTASMA

Better Than Ever—It Packs the Opera House and Pleases All.

Last year Hanlons' Fantasma scored a wonderful success in Decatur in spite of the many difficulties caused by lack of sufficient stage room. Now it reappears, revised and vastly improved in our new "Grand"—the New Fantasma with all the room and all the appliances of modern stage art at their command and the result is beyond the most extravagant anticipations of the ever sanguine.

Since last year numerous changes have been made, and while all the more popular of the old acts have been retained, much new business has been introduced, and many entirely new scenes. In the new opera house, too, the effect is vastly more striking. There is nothing that they cannot put upon its magnificent stage, and they can present the grand "Fantasma" in its highest perfection.

The audience last night was very large. At an early hour standing room was at a premium in the balcony and gallery, and every seat down stairs was taken. To say that this vast audience was charmed with the wonderful fairy spectacle would be putting it mildly indeed. The song "Shakespeare's Seven Ages," sung by Emma Abbott, was one of the most popular features, and was cleverly executed. There was plenty of fun judiciously mingled with the grand spectacles, and much of this is entirely new. The work of Rice and Rice Jr. won the heartiest plaudits of the audience.

The new "Fantasma" will be presented again to-night and to-morrow night, and from present indications the audiences will be even larger than on the first night. Many seats have already been sold. "Fantasma" is the most magnificent scenic production on the stage. None should fail to see it.

Emma Abbott, who will here next Tuesday with her great opera company, and give us the "Rose of Castile," has more fine dresses than any opera singer ever had at one time before. The chorus is large and well trained, and a musical performance is promised that is seldom equaled.

The Detroit Journal says: "If there was any one in the Detroit Opera house last night who did not laugh, loud and heartily at the fun made by Kate Castleton and her company of comedians, that person must have been deaf, dumb and blind. 'A Paper Doll' has no literary merit, but it is a bright, sparkling dialogue, plentifully sprinkled with humor of the vintage of 1889. Miss Castleton as Dolly Chumpley, a foundling, the discovery of whose identity comes in time to make her a fond father's delight, being the first scene, was a most cordial reception, which was earnestly a mingling of earnest and clever simulation of the change of demands of the character, that were only equalled by charming rendition of her vocal parts. Miss Castleton's dressing was in variety and exquisite taste, and her display of diamonds provoked the suggestive 'Oh my!' of her feminine auditors."

W. W. Fowler, representing Rice's "Coronet," was at the St. Nicholas last night. His company will be here on Saturday, Oct. 26, and present that greatest of scenic spectacles, with a company of 50 people and a wealth of fine scenery.

Martin Collin, for some time a section man here on the Illinois Central, has been made foreman of a section on the E. H. & P. at Lovington.

Although the Ohio, Indiana & Western road is operated in the interests of the Big Four system. It is stated that not until January 1, does the Big Four take complete control of the property. The lease will be ratified at the meeting of the Big Four stockholders on October 30.

One of the oldest and best known engineers on the Chicago & Alton, who ran a freight engine, was a short time ago served with a notice of indefinite suspension. A complaint of doing wrong was on duty. The engineer, who is not well known in our community, was not well known in our community. He was not well known in our community. He was not well known in our community.

That ended the interview, and an otherwise capable engineer will drive a Chicago & Alton engine no more.—Lincoln Courier.

A Show Treasurer in Jail.

Wednesday evening George Houston, extant of one of the Bennett & Moulton Opera companies, was arrested at Bloomington on a complaint of members of the company, who claim that he has embezzled part of the receipts, and is now in the city jail. The company have been playing in hard luck lately, and Houston went to Bloomington from Peoria that day to make a statement, and was arrested. He claims that he only retained his own and his wife's salaries.

Surprise Party.

The friends of Miss Bessie Sievers surprised her by calling unexpectedly at her home, 955 South Broadway last evening. They were made welcome, however, and all had a pleasant evening. The Smallest Nation.

About ten leagues from the department of the Loria-Pyrenees, lies the hamlet of Gouat, situated on the summit of a high mountain. It consists only of a few scattered cottages, with a population of about a hundred persons, forming an industrious and striving community who support themselves by wool and silk weaving. Belonging neither to France nor Spain, the hamlet constitutes a small, independent state, under the government of a council of elders, whose collective wisdom has the force of law. No taxes nor taxes of any description are paid, for the Republic of Gouat possesses neither a salaried clergyman nor a mayor nor any other officials. In the neighboring parish of Laruns their children are baptized, their citizens married and their dead buried. The country of Laruns adjoins the boundary of Gouat, and the outfit with its occupant is made to slide down a channel specially dug out for the purpose, as the only road leading to Laruns is so steep as to be impracticable for the conveyance of heavy burdens on men's shoulders. The citizens of the republic attain a great age, and a goodly number of both sexes are centenarians. The young men, as a rule, get their wives from abroad, chiefly from the O-san valley, near Laruns. For centuries past the population has remained stationary, and their ancient manners, customs and traditions have been preserved with remarkable fidelity. No one in this little state can be regarded as rich or poor, mean or respectable, or as occupying the position of master or servant. The tiny republic has a language of its own, a cross between French and Spanish.—Paris Figaro.

Diect at Champan.

George Dimock, the father of W. C. Dimock, of Decatur, died at 7 yesterday morning at his home in Champan, after an illness of several weeks. Pleurisy was the immediate cause of death. Mr. Dimock was a native of Nova Scotia and was 85 years old. He had been living in Illinois for several years. He leaves three children, Wilbur C. Dimock, of Decatur; Miss Sue Dimock, of Champan; and George Dimock of Kansas. The old gentleman lived in Decatur for a number of years. The body will be brought here for burial on the train arriving at 10:15 this morning. It will be taken direct to Greenwood.

Value of a Wife's Honor.

After being out four hours the jury in the celebrated Monte-Windle case at Tuscola returned a verdict against the defendant in the sum of $2,000.

James Monte, the plaintiff, alleged that his neighbor, William Windle, a wealthy farmer, had entered his home and ruined his wife and caused their separation. For this he asked $10,000 damages. The case attracted large crowds on account of the prominence of all parties concerned.
